

Overview

As a sign of our clientele's trust in the firm, we have represented clients — who include high net worth individuals — in many sensitive and confidential Shariah matters, including family settlements, wealth and estate planning and advisory work.

Our Shariah practice also has considerable experience in contentious and non-contentious aspects of matrimonial matters and asset management, including wills, probate and trusts. Clients appreciate that the team, consisting of corporate lawyers equipped with Shariah qualifications, is able to provide amicable and comprehensive yet commercially sensible resolutions to contentious matters.
